

ROAD TAX GAINING FRIENDS EVERY DAY

Prominent Farmers and Citizens Are For It Now Under Special Citizens' Committee

Reports from all sections of the county are to the effect that the appointment of the Citizens' Committee and pledge by the Fiscal Court to spend in each magisterial district on its own particular roads, a sum equal to that which that magisterial district pays under the special tax, if voted, have made a wonderful change in the sentiment of the people toward the 20-cent road tax proposition. Many of the most prominent citizens of the county who were openly opposed to voting to a road tax on account of the old system that has prevailed, now that they will both vote and work for the tax. They say that they feel that with the splendid set of men who have been named at the head of the proposition, and to have a road program for the county, that affairs are to be conducted along business-like lines, and that the tax money will be spent and every section get "what is coming to it."

One well known farmer remarked to the Daily Register "I know most of the men personally on the special Citizens' Committee and I know that anything they are connected with is going to be put on the square, and fair and above board. With those men in charge of the county's road program I can see no reason for any citizen to hesitate longer."

Many farmers who had intended to vote and work against the special road tax, before the Citizens' Committee was named, have now expressed themselves in favor of it. One of the best known of these is Hon. Harvey Chenault. He said to the Daily Register reporter on Friday afternoon:

"Well, I'm glad to see we're getting the road situation in shape where we can hope for some good roads. I had intended to not only vote but work against the voting of this special tax, but under the plan that has been formed, with a splendid Citizens' Committee in charge, and the money being spent fairly over the different sections of the county, I will be glad to support it and vote for it. I think the plan to secure some sort of permanent road that will not wear out every few years, is also a good one."

Other well known farmers and citizens are taking the same view of the situation as Mr. Chenault, and the special tax seems now to be gaining friends every day. The people seem to have confidence that the special Citizens' Committee composed of Messrs. T. S. Burnam, T. K. Hamilton, T. J. Curtis, John W. Welch, C. L. Searcy, Sam Milford, T. W. Taylor and L. W. Minter acting in conjunction with the Fiscal Court will see to it that the taxpayers get a dollar's worth of road work for every dollar they vote. If there is a man in Madison county who has nerve to think otherwise about this splendid set of men he has not been found yet.

A man in the county who wants a good road, is being urged to tell his friends and neighbors of the fair and square arrangement that has been made; of the assurance that has thus been pledged to the people that their money is to be handled wisely and a fair square deal given every man and every community, in order that a full vote in favor of the special tax may be gotten out to the polls on November 4th.

Old Madison must be taken out of the rut and mire.

YOUNG MEN HUNTED WITHOUT LIENSES

County Judge W. K. Price gave quick and stringent enforcement to the fish and game laws of the state in a trial in county court Friday, when two Richmond boys, Carl Pearson and Andrew Vandever, pled guilty to a charge of hunting without license. They were fined $15 and costs each. The arrests were made by District Game Warden R. M. Thary, of Estill county, who happened to make a little trip out to Waco section Sunday and caught the lads "dead to rights" with a couple of guns, and one of them had two rabbits that he had killed. The officer swore out warrants for the boys. Judge Price says that he intends to make it a dangerous thing to monkey with the fish and game laws, and that violators had better be watching their step very carefully.

DAYLIGHT SAVING LAW ENDS SUNDAY

At 2 o'clock next Sunday morning, October 26, if you are up at that hour, it will be necessary to do one of three things in order to be on time. Either stop the clock and watch it for one hour to see that it does not start off again; turn the hour hand back one hour, or forward eleven hours. It is not absolutely necessary that the operation be performed at exactly that hour. It can be done successfully at any other hour, say just before retiring Saturday night, or first thing Sunday morning.

The death of the Daylight Saving law, which gave the United States an hour's jump on Old Sol, has been officially declared for that date. The clocks were turned forward the first Sunday in April and have been in the lead since that date. Over the veto of President Wilson congress recently repealed the measure, it becoming effective next Sunday, Oct. 26.

While essentially a war measure, during its operation it won countless numbers of friends, especially among the industrial workers, and made countless enemies, especially among the farmers.

BRITAIN IN LINE FOR HIGH HONOR

Richmond relatives of Rear-Admiral Carlo B. Brittain, U. S. N. now Chief of Staff of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, and serving on the fleet flagship, the U. S. S. All of his services were performed with great ability and distinction, and reflected great credit both on the Naval Service and himself. Jenkins, American Consul General at Puebla unharmed, even though it be necessary for Mexico to pay the $150,000 ransom demanded by the bandits who kidnapped him. While this was not going forward Senator Myers democrat of Montana, introduced a resolution asking that President Wilson "use all armed forces of the United States in securing the release of Jenkins." The measure will be called up Monday. The resolution also would direct that those responsible for the abduction of Jenkins be apprehended and punished. Senator Myers sought immediate action on the resolution, but Senator Smoot, republican, of Utah, objected on the grounds that the matter calling "for such broad action" should not be considered too hastily.

Since Knoxville was able to collect, it is said other Iowa cities are interested. As far as known this city is the first to collect the tax in Iowa.

Normal School Takes On New Department

The Extension Department, which is being organized at the Eastern Kentucky State Normal school, bids fair to become one of the most popular departments of the institution. President Coates is in Lancaster this afternoon where he will address the entire teaching force of Garrard county on the work of the Extension Department. The work will be carried on through correspondence courses, study centers and the work of the School Service, Research and Information Bureau in answering questions concerning school matters. This service is especially for the following class of teachers:

1. Students who have attended the Normal school and who expect to return for certificate of further training.
 2. Teachers who want to work off some credits before enrolling.
 3. Teachers who want their scholarship and training improved.
- The Normal school is now co-operating with the city superintendents of the Eastern District in revising the course of study so that it coordinates in every respect. Dean E. C. McDougle has charge of the work and has appointed 16 committees to investigate and report their findings as to why each subject in the curriculum should be taught. This is a big step forward.

PROOF OF SALOON DEAL IS EVIDENT

Louisville Post Shows How Bar-rooms and Republicans Work Together

How the Republicans and the saloon keepers and bartenders of Louisville work together in harmony. "For the honor of Kentucky" and for Ed Morrow is shown in an editorial in the Louisville Evening Post, which tells how the government had to take a hand to enforce the law in Louisville because of the deal between the saloons and the Republicans.

(The Post discusses the deal as follows:—
"Governor James D. Black and Congressman Thomas, in speeches at Glasgow recently, called attention to the fact that many saloons in Louisville had been running wide open notwithstanding the passage of national prohibition.
"This fact is well known to many citizens of Louisville. One of the morning newspapers, supporting Mr. Morrow, is in the dark of the question, and suggests that the Federal authorities be informed.
"The Federal authorities have been informed and have acted with vigor. Since October 4 the Federal authorities have arrested 84 individuals for violating the war-time prohibition act. The evidence produced was the liquor sold to the Federal agents, which was put by them in a bottle and presented at the trial. Those arrested were all held over to the grand jury. Most of them pleaded guilty and accepted the fine.
"Employees of the following saloons and bars were arrested and either indicted or entered a plea of guilty and accepted a fine:
Hither & Hughes, Palm Garden, Roth Brothers, Hickey's Cafe, Emrich's Cafe, Enterprise Hotel, Seeger's Cafe, Delmar Cafe, Maxie's Cafe, Sheridan's Cafe, Conley's Cafe, Corcoran's Cafe, Stag Hotel, Kroeger's Cafe, Siegler's Hotel, Disch's Cafe, Antler Hotel, Cochran's Cafe, Al Stebler's Cafe, Schueler's Cafe, Hendrick's Cafe, McMahon's Cafe, Yenners's Cafe, Boston Cafe, Young's Cafe, Seitz's Cafe, Nolan's Mary Anderson Cafe.
"These saloons are almost all centrally located and easy of access from the City Hall.
"The Federal authorities found liquor sold over at least twenty-five bars during ten days' investigation. There were two men engaged by the United States government in this work.
"Neither before, at that time, nor since has the city administration of Louisville, nor the Seary police force nor the county authorities made any arrests or any evident attempts to prevent the sale of liquor by the saloons. The Louisville police force has 418 men; the county has 25 deputy sheriffs and 15 patrolmen. The forces available by the Republican administration amounted to 458 men. The Federal organization for the enforcement of law used two men, as stated above.
"The gratitude of the saloonkeepers of Louisville is shown by the great number of cards bearing the photograph of Mr. Morrow to be seen in the saloons and in their windows.
"Then the city administration has 299 times the number of men employed by the government, 458 to 2, no one can claim that they lack the means of enforcing the law against the sale of liquor.
"Those most influential in the city administration are the same Republicans who are behind the campaign for Mr. Morrow, and are most influential in Mr. Morrow's councils. If the state wishes an idea of how the prohibition act will be enforced in Kentucky, should the Republicans win, they have only to look at the record of the Republican administration in Louisville."
